

Non-Surgical Inch Loss System

Here at Bellissimo Medical Salon & Spa we travel worldwide to bring you the top revolutionary systems which bring the most dramatic results, such as our Nano Inch Loss System. It offers a lot of the benefits of physical exercise without its adverse effects. As a result of the muscles being contracted, the muscle fibers tighten and shrink resulting in inch loss. The inch loss system has a diuretic effect as well as stimulating the removal of waste products through its inherent lymphatic drainage which assists in ridding the body of excess fluid. Bodily circulation is greatly improved, and notable results with cellulite reduction have been reported. There is no glucose burn which results in very little lactic acid being released, so there is no muscle soreness after an inch loss system workout. No other facility in the area has this Nano Inch Loss Technology and the success achieved from non-surgical inch loss like the results obtained from Bellissimo Medical Spa & Salon.

Gerry Pollock, the co-inventor of the pacemaker, originally designed this machine at London University in 1994, for the prevention of muscle wasting conditions that cause muscle atrophy and medical conditions such as Multiple Sclerosis. Once released into the medical community, a team of female practitioners conducted clinical trials on this nano technology with patients that had given birth naturally, three months prior. After one nano technology treatment, measurable inch loss was reported. With repeated treatments the medical reports showed these patients experienced muscle building, toning and inch loss. The results were shared with other medical institutions as well as spas and salons. Nano technology has been used throughout Europe as one of the most effective and comfortable body shaping systems available in the market.

Nano technology treatments are done in a series of six to ten treatments for each target area, depending on each patient. At your initial appointment, Dr. Nerette will identify your target area, such as abdomen, buttocks or legs. Measurements are taken before and after each treatment to accurately document your inch loss. The doctor or the medical team is with you every step of the way during this painless muscle building procedure. Dr. Nerette uses his own unique protocol combining mesotherapy and nano technology to obtain even further improvements. Each session lasts approximately 45 minutes.

It is important that you are well hydrated before, during and after all nano technology treatments because of the detoxifying effects of your treatment. Results are achieved when you consistently drink 8 to 10 glasses of water a day. Increased lymphatic drainage, increased circulation and metabolism after each session are some of the benefits of this system in order to help you look great inside and out.

All treatments are by appointment only and we recommend two treatments per week, so your ten series lasts five weeks. Results can be permanent if you continue with a healthy lifestyle which includes exercise and healthy eating. Patients must use the nano technology in conjunction with exercise to receive maximum results, not in place of.
